

Call from the Palestine General Federation of Trade Unions and the Arab Trade Union Confederation

الاتحاد العربي للنقابات
ARAB TRADE UNION CONFEDERATION

To all trade union organizations around the world

15 minutes for decent work and life for Palestinian workers and people

On October 7, workers around the world commemorate World Day for Decent Work, a date on which unions reaffirm one of their most important principles: defending the right of workers, without discrimination, to decent work.

This date also reminds us of a full year since the occupation deprived Palestinian workers of their right to go to work and subjected the Palestinian people to all forms of oppression and systematic destruction of the foundations of a decent life, foremost of which is the right to work.

To address this injustice faced by the workers and people of Palestine, let us all stop working for 15 minutes to remind the international community of the suffering of Palestinian workers and people, and to reaffirm the global trade union movement's commitment to its principles, which support peoples' right to emancipation, freedom, and self-determination.
